

MEET BVHS BOARD MEMBER

John Quaid

John Quaid, vice president and controller of Marathon Petroleum Company (MPC), was born in St. Paul, Minnesota and grew up in Freehold, New Jersey. He met his wife, Julie, while attending Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania and married her postgraduation. After receiving a bachelor's degree in accounting in 1994, John began his career at PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP in the audit and assurance practice and was promoted to manager in 1998.

John continued to grow in his career thereafter. In 2000, he joined FastForward Inc., an enterprise marketing software developer and service provider startup company as a corporate controller. Two years later he began working at U.S. Steel as manager of investor relations, and advanced to director of facility marketing and business planning in 2004. After being named director of finance for the former U.S. Steel Serbia in 2005, John and his wife relocated to the Republic of Serbia and remained there for two years. When John returned to the U.S., he began serving as a lead project manager for U.S. Steel's enterprise resource planning project. He advanced to assistant corporate controller in 2008 and was named controller for North American Flat-Rolled Operations in 2010. John was

"I truly enjoy the interaction with other members of the board and the management of the hospital and the health foundation."

then elected vice president and treasurer in August 2011 and accepted the role of vice president of iron ore at U.S. Steel in January 2014 before assuming his current position at MPC in June 2014.

After settling in to his position at MPC and his new home in Findlay, Ohio, John began searching for opportunities to support the community. When he was offered a position to serve on the Blanchard Valley Health Foundation (BVHF) board, he felt that it was a good fit for him and an excellent way to accomplish his goal of getting involved. Since joining in 2014, John has enjoyed his time serving his community as a member of the development committee. "I truly enjoy the interaction with other members of the board and the management of the hospital and the health foundation," he said. "Everyone is committed to ensuring the health system is doing its best to serve our community."

Outside of MPC and the BVHF board, John enjoys quality time with his three children, Meghan, Mollie and Will. They spend a lot of time at sporting events and other recreational activities. Additionally, John remains active by playing golf, playing tennis and running when he has the time. He and his family also plan a vacation to the beach once a year to spend quality time together. Despite the busy work and family life John leads, he still makes serving on the BVHF board a priority. "Blanchard Valley Health System is an outstanding organization that is always looking to improve," he said. "I'm proud to be a member of the BVHF board."